

Some of the first results from individual fish show PCBs, banned in the UK in 1981, can still be found in three species of fish collected from the River Thames in 2007